MEDICAL TRAVEL INDUSTRY

Medical travel is a growing industry yet one that is currently underserved. There is little data regarding healthcare outcomes and patient experience, and oftentimes a lack of understanding by healthcare providers respecting the unique needs and expectations of medical travelers.
The GHA accreditation process helps healthcare providers optimize and enhance all touchpoints along the Medical Travel Care Continuum™ by:

• identifying gaps;
• improving efficiencies;
• fine-tuning performance; and
• sharing best practices.

However, it is not just about demonstrating that a healthcare provider follows processes and a set of standards, it is about self-examination and continuous improvement.

This translates into a better care experience for traveling patients which is linked to better healthcare outcomes and financial performance.

"Since 1917 when the Minimum Standard for Hospitals was implemented, Accreditation and Certification have been a valuable predictor for clinical outcomes with hospitals and clinics.

There is clear proof that accreditation programs improve the quality and process of care provided by healthcare services.

Dr. Erik Fleischman, Former Medical Director, Bumrungrad International Hospital
“Careful attention to the patient experience of care is even more important in the context of medical travel, in that the patient has the added stress of not only being in a hospital environment but a hospital outside of their own country.

Ensuring that we support the physical, emotional and spiritual needs of each patient based on their culture and values is essential to producing the best possible clinical outcomes.”

Susan B. Frampton, PhD
President, Planetree

PATIENT PERSPECTIVE

GHA helps medical travelers navigate an incredibly complex system by providing quality hallmarks that help answer the critical question: how do I know if a hospital is as good as it says it is?

Additionally, GHA provides concrete and measurable value to patients by ensuring that the hospital or clinic has instituted processes that are customized to the medical travelers’ unique needs and expectations and are constantly monitored for improvement.
“Employers have many choices in how they design their benefits and the network providers they utilize. In this value-based purchasing environment, a hospital provider needs not only to deliver and document its high quality and costs, but also demonstrate it understands and exceeds the expectations of its customers.

Purchasers are seeking providers who understand the concerns and fears of patients in navigating health care, especially when receiving it outside their community or country.”

Larry Boress, Former CEO, Midwest Business Group On Health

BUYER PERSPECTIVE

One of the challenges buyers and referrers face as they expand across borders is identifying high quality healthcare providers for their employees or insured. The GHA Program offers a solution in that it connects buyers to a rapidly growing network of GHA accredited healthcare providers, validating quality and value, while helping to mitigate risk.

Through the establishment of a multidisciplinary board including insurers, employers, clinicians and leaders in the medical travel industry, GHA is keenly aware of the challenges facing traveling patients and has instituted standards that promote a quality patient experience across the entire Medical Travel Care Continuum™.
WHAT IS GHA?

The Global Healthcare Accreditation® (GHA) Program is an independent accrediting body that seeks to improve the patient experience and excellence of care received by patients who travel for their medical care and treatment, whether within their own country or internationally.

GHA MISSION STATEMENT:

GHA’s goal is to share professional norms and set the standard for organizations serving medical travel patients. With a focus on the entire Medical Travel Care Continuum®™, patient experience and sustainable business practices - we seek to provide both short term and long term value to our clients, whom we view as strategic partners.
KAREN TIMMONS
CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Karen brings exceptional expertise and perspective on the global healthcare industry having previously served as President and CEO of Joint Commission International (JCI), Chief Operating Officer of The Joint Commission, and Global Patient Safety Officer for Det Norske Veritas (DNV). Karen has also served as Chair of the World Health Organization’s Collaborating Center for Patient Safety Solutions and Chair of ISQua’s Accreditation Council. She is globally recognized for her expertise in developing and building value solutions for sustainable quality improvement, patient safety and patient centered initiatives.

THE GHA DIFFERENCE

Focused on the Needs of Medical Travelers
The GHA program complements existing national and international clinical accreditation programs. While these programs traditionally focus on the clinical aspects of care for the entire organization, GHA conducts a deep review of the International or Global Patient Services program, or the entity within an organization that serves the medical travel patient.

Impacts Your Financial Health
GHA ensures that organizations receive solutions that impact not just patient outcomes, but business performance and the organization’s financial health. Because GHA focuses on the entire Medical Travel Care Continuum™—those business functions within an organization that impact the medical travel program, such as Marketing, Finance, and Technology are included. GHA also identifies ways to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of the Medical Travel Care Continuum™, while reducing vulnerabilities.

GHA Standards are Supported by a Diverse Group of Stakeholders
Our advisory board includes representatives from leading hospitals and insurance companies, as well as organizations focused on patient experience, risk management, employee benefits, and medical travel facilitation. Additionally, GHA regularly surveys buyers of health services to assure our standards are finely tuned to the needs of traveling patients seeking care under a variety of circumstances.

Provides Clients with Increased Visibility
GHA regularly participates in international healthcare events including hosting Medical Director Summits, participating in Ministerial Summits, roundtables and focus groups, while quickly building a growing social media presence. These initiatives and others have allowed us to develop a vast database that benefits our clients through visibility, connectivity, and networking events.
The Entire Care Continuum
Enhancing patient experience and engagement underpins each touch point of the continuum.

The Global Healthcare Accreditation® (GHA) Program offers advisory and custom education services that expand and strengthen the capabilities and competencies of your medical travel program or destination development program. GHA offers consultative services for start-up medical travel programs and capacity development strategies for organizations and initiatives looking to scale existing programs.

Organizations that seek to prepare adequately for an accreditation site visit can also benefit from services specific to GHA recognized core competencies:

- The Patient Experience
- Sustainable Business Processes
- Patient-Focused Clinical Processes

Global Healthcare Accreditation® (GHA) standards are the foundation of a systematic and objective evaluation process of an organization’s approach to the management of medical travel services across the entire Medical Travel Care Continuum™.

Each competency is part of a comprehensive framework that creates awareness towards meaningful management and quantifiable performance regarding medical travel services in order for organizations to improve over time. GHA Standards focus on how all steps in the Medical Travel Care Continuum™ contribute to an overall safe, high quality medical travel experience.
Established in 1985, ISQua is a member-based, not-for-profit community and organization dedicated to promoting quality improvement in health care. It is widely recognized as the “accreditor of accreditors” and the reference point for international healthcare accrediting bodies seeking an external validation of their standards. ISQua’s IEEA accreditation provides assurance that the GHA standards meet the highest international benchmarks for accreditation entities.

“As someone who has worked in the global health insurance industry for over 20 years, I understand the unique challenges patients face when seeking medical care internationally. The Global Healthcare Accreditation (GHA) Program is filling a gap in the accreditation landscape in that it focuses primarily on the enhancement of patient experience and sustainable business practices along the international patient pathway through the healthcare system: before admission, during the stay, and after discharge. Achieving IEEA accreditation for its medical travel standards should provide assurance to traveling patients and payers that GHA accredited organizations are focused on transparency and meet or exceed international best-practices in medical travel.”

Laurent Pochat-Cottilloux, Global Head of Health Reinsurance Partnerships for AXA

GHA COLLABORATIONS

Dr. Peter Angood, President and Chief Executive Officer of The American Association for Physician Leadership (AAPL):

“GHA, for us, is the primary leader for developing medical travel standards and for assisting organizations with their abilities to enhance the provision of superb medical travel services. AAPL is excited to partner with GHA in our collective efforts to optimize the delivery of care for medical travel patients within a variety of international institutions.”

Dr. Essam Masoud, Former Chief Medical Officer of Insurance Company Saudi Enaya:

“Including GHA accredited organizations in our network is good news for our members, as GHA validates that healthcare providers have policies and procedures in place designed to facilitate a high-quality patient experience across the entire care continuum. GHA aligns well with our ultimate goal to enhance the patient experience, improve health outcomes, and reduce healthcare costs.”

Renée-Marie Stephano, Co-Founder & Chief Executive Officer of Global Healthcare Resources:

“Global Healthcare Accreditation is by far the most disruptive organizations in the medical travel industry, creating accountability and transforming the business of global health through a focus on the patient experience. GHA’s collaborative approach with governments, national accreditation bodies, and medical travel buyers makes them an excellent partner to successfully improve healthcare delivery worldwide.”
Delivering an outstanding patient/guest experience on a consistent basis is not something that can be improvised; it requires in-depth knowledge of your customers’ needs and expectations. There are considerations regarding culture and language, care management, travel coordination, risk mitigation and legal and privacy issues.

Whether you work in the healthcare or hospitality fields, as a Certified Medical Travel Professional (CMTP) you will possess the skills and knowledge to facilitate the seamless integration of quality, safety, and service at all touch points along the Medical Travel Care Continuum™.

"We chose Global Healthcare Accreditation as it conducts a deep review of the entire Medical Travel Care Continuum. Additionally, GHA reviews those sustainable business processes and practices related to medical travel that have helped us identify areas of opportunity to enhance the patient experience and improve operational performance."

DR. NIZAR ZEIN,
Chairman Global Patient Services, Cleveland Clinic

"GHA is the only accreditation that has ever looked at all the details in the entire Medical Travel Care Continuum and elevated them to the importance they play in patient satisfaction and successful care. Even a top international hospital like Bumrungrad had much to learn from GHA. We were a great hospital. We are even better now."

DR. ERIK FLEISCHMAN,
Former Medical Director International Bumrungrad International Hospital

"The GHA accreditation process taught us many new strategies to improve the patient experience for medical travelers and refine our operational procedures. We are extremely proud to have achieved Global Healthcare Accreditation as it validates our commitment to improving patient care and safety for traveling patients."

JADRANKA PRIMORAC,
COO of St. Catherine Specialty Hospital

"GHA has helped prepare our clinic to anticipate medical travelers’ needs and expectations, ensuring we provide an exceptional experience before, during and after their visit. By choosing a GHA accredited institution, our patients will find complete clarity of what to expect from their treatments, our medical specialists, and how our staff will deliver the safest and best care experience."
